Washington Technology Industry Association Announces 2008 Investment Forum Winners

N2uitive Corporation takes home two awards, one for Best and Brightest, the other in the software category

SEATTLE – (April 24, 2008) – The Washington Technology Industry Association – the largest statewide association of technology companies, IT departments and individual technology professionals in North America, today announced the winning companies from its 15th annual Investment Forum.

Nearly 350 industry influencers attended the Investment Forum April 24 at the Bell Harbor International Conference Center, where 26 companies in the wireless, digital media, Web services, clean tech, software industries and online community were selected to present their business models to panels of top venture capitalists and regional business leaders.

Panelists scored each company on its business model, management team, market analysis, products and/or services and presentation, ultimately selecting one winner from each category. Among the winning presenters, N2uitive Corporation took home two awards for its recorded statement management solution, one for Best and Brightest, the other in the software category.

“The annual Investment Forum truly demonstrates the Washington Technology Industry Association’s commitment to the growth of the Pacific Northwest’s emerging technology industry,” said Ken Myer, president and chief executive officer of the Washington Technology Industry Association. “With the highest number of attendees to date, the visibility for Washington state’s most talented technology companies was unprecedented.”

The winning companies included:
